GENERAL NOTES AND NEWS.

Thirty thousand feet of fire hose was destroyed in the Boston conflagration.

One firm in Boston removed one million dollars worth of goods from their store on the night of the fire.

Boston merchants expect to do a rushing business this season, as everybody will want to go and see the ruins made by the fire.

The printers, reporters and editors, in the office of the Boston Advertiser, all worked thirty-six consecutive hours on the occasion of the fire.

A Virginia City ring are getting up a corner in fuel. Consumers propose to break it by importing Rocky Mountain coal in large quantities.

It is difficult now to find a Democrat who did not know that Greeley would be about the worst whipped man ever nominated for the Presidency.

The light created by the Boston fire, was seen at sea, ninety miles from the shore, and even at Portland, Maine, which is over one hundred miles distant.

By the way, where is our old friend, Carl Schurz? He has been so conspicuously on exhibition for some months past that he ought at least to come forward now and show his teeth.

The Prairie du Chien Union says: "A noted old fogy Democrat of Wauzeka has hung up his white beaver hat to roost on a peg in the cow shed, and draped it in mourning for H. G."

Competent persons estimate that it will cost $20,000 to set the wooden pavements of San Francisco in proper repair. The members of the Street Committee are at their wits' ends for a remedy.

In the shoe shops of Lynn, Mass., are some venerable relics of the past. For instance, there is a lap-stone that has been used in the shop for 127 years, and a lap which has been used on the same bench for 39 years—The latter belongs to John Chase.

Groton, Mass., where Hon. Geo. S. Boutwell began political life as a Democratic Representative, is now the banner town of Massachusetts Republicanism and on Tuesday the 5th inst. did not give a single vote for the Democratic candidate for Governor.

Ex-Governor Swann, who has been elected to the House of Representatives from one of the Baltimore districts, was chosen United States Senator from Maryland in 1866, but did not dare present himself to take his seat because the proofs were so positive that he had given aid and comfort to the rebellion.

Brigham Young has sent a deputation, composed of Lorenzo Snow, Elijah R. Snow, Geo. A. Smith, F. Little, D. Clara, Paul Schettler, Anson Call and Jacob Waller, on a secret mission to Jerusalem. The result will probably be a new "revelation," designed to guide and comfort saints amid the perils that environ them.

Humanitarians in England are agitating for the abolition of the "cat" as a punishment for robbery. We are not sure but the cat would be a good thing for certain offenses, such as wife-beating, indignities offered by ruffians to ladies, &c. There are certain classes of ruffians who are impervious to any other than a feline argument.

A large number of thieves went from New York to Boston, for the purpose of robbing the sufferers by the fire, but they were excluded from the burnt district, and dispersed themselves in the suburban towns, where they caused much trouble. In Boston, 75,000 worth of property was taken from thieves, and over 200 of the rascals arrested.

The New York Shipping List of the 2nd inst., has the following: "Three of the four steamers designed for the British line between Hongkong, Yokohama and San Francisco, have been completed, and the enterprise is to be inaugurated about the first of January, by the departure of the pioneer steamer from Hongkong. It is stated that vessels will take the Northern route, thus shortening the distance about 500 miles, and reducing the passage from San Francisco to Yokohama to 16 days, instead of the present schedule of 22 days by the Pacific Mail line."

CONFEDERATE NOTES AS A LEGAL CONSIDERATION.—An Eastern exchange publishes the following decision:

In this case one Henderson, residing in New Orleans, purchased real estate at sheriff's sale in that city, retaining the amount of the purchase money over the sum required to satisfy the claim in the suit in which the sale was made, to apply on judgments and mortgages recorded against the original owner of the property sold. The parties to the present suit seek to determine which of them is entitled to the fund held by Henderson, one of them claiming, under a seizure by garnishment, to satisfy a judgment against the former owner, and the other under a seizure to satisfy a mortgage of the property, out of the sale of which the fund arose. The court found that the appellant, one Delmas, had the prior claim; but held that, as the consideration of his demand was a payment in Confederate money, his judgment was paid, and the appellee, the Merchants' Mutual Insurance Company, was entitled to the fund. The appellant claiming that this decision was under the new constitution of the State prohibiting the recognition of Confederate money as a legal consideration for contracts, insists that it upholds a State law "imparing the obligation of contracts," and that he has a right to have the judgment reviewed and corrected by the United States Supreme Court, where the case was now argued on the merits and on a motion to dismiss for want of jurisdiction.

PROFITS OF FARMING.—The Farmers' Home Journal says:

We frequently hear farmers complaining that there is nothing made in farming. If a farmer, after paying his expenses for the year, has a thousand dollars left he considers he has been very poorly paid for his years work, but if he will give the farm credit for the three great necessaries of life, house rent, table supplies and fuel, he will readily see that the result is quite as favorable as any business will produce. If $20,000 is judiciously invested in a farm, with all the appurtenances necessary to its cultivation, it will be found that the proceeds from such an investment will support a family with the greatest of comfort that would cost from five to seven thousand dollars in the city. We do not know of any mercantile pursuit with a capital of $20,000 that will make as good a showing. One of the best arguments in favor of farming is that it is a safe business. It is a rare occurrence that a farmer who confines himself to that alone, fails in business. Whenever we hear of a farmer making an assignment of his property for the benefit of his creditors, upon inquiry it will be ascertained that the cause of his trouble is some outside speculation, and not farming.

ELECTION RETURNS.

THE RESULT IN KENTUCKY.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 14—1 A. M.—The Commercial has official returns from ninety counties; they give Grant 78,838, Greeley 80,253, O'Conor 1,061; Republican gain 1,125, Democratic loss 25,154. The twenty-six counties not heard from gave Harlow 12,285, Leslie 15,127. This vote, added to that of the Presidential candidates, will make the result stand Grant 91,123, Greeley 101,380; Democratic majority 10,257. The Republicans will gain in the twenty-six counties about two thousand, and the Democrats will lose 260; so that Greeley's majority in the State will be about seven thousand. It is doubtful whether the Republicans will elect a Congressmen or not.

GRANT'S MAJORITY IN VIRGINIA.

RICHMOND, Nov. 13.—Official returns from 101 counties, cities and towns, give Greeley 508 majority.

Unofficial returns from 7 other counties give Grant 2,088 majority. Only two counties have not been heard from. These gave Walls, Republican, for Governor, in 1869, 350 majority. If those unofficial figures are not materially changed Grant's majority in the State will be about 2,000.

It is probable that the election of Davis, Democrat, in the 5th Congressional district, will be contested by Thomas, Republican, on the ground of a number of votes having been thrown out in Halifax county by the canvassers for some illegal informality.

TENNESSEE.

NASHVILLE, Nov. 13.—Returns, official and reported, from all but a few counties in Tennessee, gives Greeley 17,000 majority, and Brown, for Governor, 10,500.

The Congressional delegation stands seven Republicans to three Democrats. Both branches of the Legislature are Democratic.

THE RESULT IN TEXAS.

GALVESTON, November 13.—The net Democratic majority in forty nine counties is 8,775. It is generally conceded that the Democrats have elected all their candidates for Congress, and have a majority in both branches of the Legislature.

Austin has about ten thousand majority as the permanent location for the capital.

A BRIDEGROOM COMMITS SUICIDE ON HIS WEDDING DAY.—A shocking event took place at Dublin, on the morning of October 24th. A marriage was to take place between Hubert de Burgh, a young barrister, and a son of a Major in the army, and Miss Margaret Rogers, a daughter of a magistrate. Both parties belonged to the best Dublin society. The marriage was to take place at St. Peter's Church, and at the hour fixed for the celebration the bridal party entered the church. The bridegroom did not make his appearance, and, after some delay, a messenger was dispatched to Mr. de Burgh's house. On reaching the house he found that the bridegroom had, after dressing himself for the ceremony, returned to his bed room and cut his throat with a razor. On learning what had taken place the bridal party broke up amid a very distressing scene, the bride being conveyed home in an

The Legal Tender Reserve

In their endeavor, during the Presidential campaign, to create public sentiment against the Administration, on account of the management of the Treasury Department, the Democrats and their allies had much to say about the reserve of $14,000,000 currency which Secretary Boutwell considered to be available whenever, in his judgment, it was demanded. It was declared that this reserve was simply a device whereby the Secretary of the Treasury was enabled to expand or contract the currency of the country at his pleasure, in the interest of financial and political rings. Thus, it was asserted, the Treasury Department was manipulated for the benefit of corrupt politicians, and as a means of securing the continuance in power of the President and his friends.

This is about the only one of the legion of calumnies put into circulation during the campaign, that has survived the wreck of the Greeley movement. The rest disappeared from the public gaze along with their authors. But the opposition journals still mention the reserve of $14,000,000, with unfriendly comments, and oracular insinuations about the immense frauds that have been perpetrated upon the public through its instrumentality. This is just such a matter as disingenuous persons can seize upon and turn to advantage, because the people are not familiar the law and facts out of which it arises. The details of the Treasury Department are less understood by intelligent business men than one might suppose. Nobody takes the pains to study and comprehend the system upon which the finances of the Government are conducted, except persons who are in some sort connected with its operation, as bankers and the few others who deal in the Government securities. The acts and regulations of that branch of public business are supposed to be so numerous and their operations so complex, that few persons could afford to undertake to master the system, unless prompted thereto by business necessities. And yet so far as this $14,000,000 reserve is concerned, the facts are as simple and plain as those connected with almost any of the subjects with which business men are in the habit of dealing in their daily transactions.

On February 25, 1862, Congress passed an act authorizing the issue of $150,000,000 in legal tender notes; on July 11th of the same year another issue of $150,000,000 was authorized, but, of that issue, it was provided that the Secretary should issue only $100,000,000, at once and should hold the other $50,000,000 in reserve as a means of the payment of a temporary loan authorized by the same act; on March 3, 1863, a law was passed authorizing still another issue of $150,000,000. Thus, the amount of notes authorized by those acts of Congress was $450,000,000, subject to the reserve of $50,000,000 above specified.

The provision of the act of July, 1862, making the reserve of $50,000,000 was that this sum should be reserved to pay temporary deposits and be used for that purpose, whenever in the judgment of the Secretary of the Treasury the issue of the same or any part thereof might become necessary. Chief Justice Chase, at that time Secretary of the Treasury, construed this provision to mean that the reserved amount should only be used for the purpose specified, and that therefore, whenever, after its issuance the same amount should be withdrawn, reducing the whole issue to $400,000,000, the $50,000,000 should not be reissued; in other words, that only $100,000,000 should be permanently placed in circulation, and the remainder should be merely temporary. The Supreme Court has since sustained this view.

At the instigation of Secretary McCulloch, on April 12, 1866, Congress passed an act providing for the retiring and cancellation of not more than $10,000,000 within six months, at a rate not to exceed $4,000,000 per month. Afterwards an act was passed, which took effect February 4, 1868, suspending the power of the Secretary to retire legal tender notes. So that time the amount outstanding was $356,000,000. The power of retirement having been taken away, the circulation can not fall below that amount as the law now stands. Of the four acts of Congress taken together, authorize, the keeping in circulation of an amount not less than $356,000,000, nor more than $400,000,000, leaving the sum of $44,000,000, which Secretary Boutwell considers himself authorized to issue whenever, in his judgment, there is occasion therefor. The only three instances in which he has exercised this power were in September, 1869, when he issued $1,500,000, to take up certain certificates of indebtedness of the Government, issued in the former Administration, and bearing interest at three per centum, in November, 1871, when he issued $1,500,000 to replace in circulation the currency destroyed by the Chicago fire; and the further issue of $5,000,000 recently, to relieve the exigency of the New York money corner.

It may not be very clear from the law that the Secretary has the authority to issue the $44,000,000 whenever, in his discretion, it seems it best to do so; but is very clear that have been the circumstances under which he has exercised that authority, and if there has been no attempt or intention on his part to conceal or cover up anything in connection therewith.

We publish this morning the decision of Judge Deady of the U. S. District Court, in the case of Buchanan & Francis in bankruptcy. The opinion is long, but the point immediately discussed is one which interests almost every business man in the country, and will repay the general reader for perusal. There are very few indeed who do not at times stand in relations to others, which may in law render them liable as partners or quasi partners. The question what state of facts will render one liable as a partner for the debts of another, is one of those upon which courts hesitate to attempt to lay down any rule as of general application, for the reason that there are always modifying circumstances to be considered in each case. The principles discussed in this case are not merely applicable in the court of Bankruptcy. They obtain equally in all courts of law and equity, and a thorough understanding of them would not infrequently enable business men to avoid the annoyances of litigation and the loss of money.

A French physician has invented an ingenious apparatus for the purpose of making the human heart register its own pulsations. The contrivance is said to be applicable to various kindred purposes such as making a registration of respirations in breathing, sighing and all physiological phenomena of a similar character. It operates upon the principles employed in photography, and relies the agency of light in performing its work.

The Prussian Diet has voted over a million thalers to increase the compensation of the civil service. The civil service employes of Great Britain are urging similar action in their favor. The same argument is urged by the British civil service that prevailed at Berlin, namely, that the compensation paid is barely sufficient, with the most rigid economy to enable the officers to subsist, while other persons who possess sufficient ability to discharge the duties of such positions, it is alleged receive in private pursuits two or three times as much. Chancellor Howe favors the movement, and it is said to have received encouragement from others whose influence is very considerable in governmental affairs.

The burnt district of Boston is to have wider and better laid out streets when it is rebuilt. The narrow and crooked streets contributed materially to the spread of the fire, by rendering it impossible for firemen to pass in front of the burning buildings. The new map in to be so made as to give every man as nearly as practicable the same ground he occupied before the fire, and when it is necessary to take land it is to be paid for by the city. There appears to be a unanimous desire to have this plan carried out.

We are in receipt of a letter from Oregon City which states that the employes in the woolen mills, with their own hose, rendered valuable assistance in saving the wool house and dye house. Great credit is due the employes for their efforts to subdue the flames. They all worked with a will, and some of them braved great danger to save the property, and prevent the further spread of the flames.

The telegraph is down south of Yreka. Hence we have no Eastern dispatches.

High Handed Proceeding in New Orleans

A New Orleans dispatch of Nov. 13th, has the following concerning the troubles in that city:

A revolution is threatened here. Gov. Warmouth has surrounded Mechanics' Institute with a body of armed police, where the counting of the votes is conducted.

The Returning Board of Election Officers has been changed by the removal of Messrs. Pinchback, Anderson, and Gen. Herron, Secretary of State. Gen. Herron was removed from office by Gov. Warmouth, and one Jacob Wharton, an ex-Confederate officer, put in his stead. Two other plastic tools, H. H. Hatch and Durant Daponta, were put in the places of Messrs. Pinchback and Anderson.

Those men, with Wharton, a man named John Lynch, and Hatch and Daponta, with the Governor, compose the returning Board. They are expected to count in the fusion ticket.

The New York Times is boiling over with rage, and is egging on resistance to the United States authority. Gen. Emory has been requested to send troops to the scene of action.

Outrageous frauds, perpetrated by Warmouth and his satellites, are daily coming to light. District-Attorney Beckwith and Marshal Packard are watching the proceedings with close attention.

The Republicans are to be defrauded out of their rights at all hazards unless something supervenes to prevent it.

The city is greatly agitated with the events of to-day.

THE DECLINE OF PARIS.—The Paris correspondent of the New York Times has the following.

Owing to the immense prosperity of the Empire—which many would deny if they could—thousands of families invested their savings in works of art or articles of luxury and taste, and these things are now being turned into ready money. In all parts of France there are constant auction sales; the Hotel des Ventes is daily filled with rich and costly furniture and pictures; the dealers in bric-a brac are sixfold more numerous than of old, and nearly half of the fine stores, along the new streets, are temporarily occupied by brocanteurs, who spread out their wares to catch the eyes of passing strangers. One sees family pictures and souvenirs which would never have been sold but for necessity. Sometimes strangers pick up bargains. Not long ago an American bought a very small picture for 100 francs, and sold it a few hours later to M. de Rothschild for 3,000 francs, and another bought a 20,000 franc picture for 100 francs. I have had some personal experience, also, having bought out a Baron who found his income utterly inadequate to the present rate of living, and who was glad to sell at a very low price, rather than send his furniture and pictures to the public sale, and have the fact advertised to all the world. He is a member of the Jockey Club, and formerly lived very comfortably; but now he says, he finds it impossible to live upon an income which once kept him well, with two servants and a pair of horses.

GRANT MEANS BUSINESS.—In an interview the other day between the President and a Pennsylvania delegation, in regard to the appointment of a Postmaster for Philadelphia, the President manifested in his remarks a determination to carry out the spirit of the Civil Service rules to a letter. Telegrams inform us that in course of the Chief Magistrate has excited considerable comment among politicians, they alleging that such a procedure will exclude many men from holding office who have just claims on the Republican party, and who can creditably fill the offices for which they apply, but at the same time, cannot pass a Civil Service examination. Those dissatisfied politicians seem to have regarded President Grant's position on the Civil Service as a mere clap-trap to secure votes. It will be gratifying to the people to know that President Grant is not capable of such demagogueery. He has never from the first shown any disposition to deceive or mislead the people. He has always been frank as well as sincere in the taking of his positions, and consistent in his efforts to carry them out. Whether the Civil Service is the wisest, remains to be seen. One thing politicians may rely on: President Grant intends to give it a fair trial, and the people generally expect it of him.—Albany Register.

A MATHEMATICAL CONGRATULATION.—The Chicago Journal of Commerce thus felicitates itself and the country upon the result of the election.

We congratulate the manufacturing, and commercial communities of the Republic on the re-election of General Grant. We hail his second advent as the signal of stability. Stability is the best watch-word for our material interests. By this we do not mean stagnation, we mean stereotyped principles that shall expand or contract tariff, taxation or currency, according as the increase of population or the commercial interests of the nation may demand. Wise men form their opinions of the future of an administration from its past history. During the last three years and eight months there has been a constant reduction of the national debt of $3 13¾—minus the fraction of a mill—every second—$188 25 every minute—11,295 every hour—and $271,080 every day, while at the same time there has been a yearly reduction of tariff and taxes.

RELIEF FOR THE WORKING WOMEN.—We clip the following from the Washington Chronicle of the 11th:

We understand that there is a movement on foot among the ladies of the Internal Revenue Bureau to raise money for the immediate needs of the ten thousand working women of Boston rendered destitute by the late fire, and an earnest appeal is made to all members of the various Departments and working women generally throughout the city to subscribe.

The money raised will be intrusted to responsible persons in Boston for distribution, and that a full account of its use may be rendered.

Contributions may be sent to Mrs Lily D Wood, room 36, Internal Revenue, Treasury Department, between the hours of nine and two o'clock.

The leading papers of California, of both political parties, so far as they have expressed an opinion, are almost unanimous against the calling of an extra session of the Legislature.

DR RESSER HAVING LOCATED HIMSELF IN Portland, permanently, makes both

Liver & Lung Diseases

A SPECIALTY,

And is now prepared to treat patients for these diseases. Not being fortunate enough to have treated a great many eminent and distinguished persons whose names are most generally embraced to the world by ordinary physicians; but at the same time I can produce numerous and voluntary testimonials from those I have treated for the above diseases.

It is well enough known throughout California that I am the possessor of a secret to prepare a medicine, purely vegetable, for the above diseases, and have made some of the

Most Remarkable Cures on Record,

And in cases which were entirely despaired of by other physicians.

A Card to the Public.

Having learned that Dr H RESSER has located himself in Portland, I deem it my duty to the public, and more particularly those persons who may be afflicted as I have been. After leaving Portland, a few months ago, I became afflicted with Epileptic Fits, and after having tried and consulted several distinguished physicians, without any benefit whatever, I was advised to call on Dr. H. RESSER, who happened to be visiting Virginia City at the time on professional business. I lost no time in placing myself under the care of Dr RESSER, and am now restored to perfect health. I can most highly recommend DR. RESSER to those who may be equally afflicted. FREDERICK FORNER.

Other Testimony.

MR BOSCH I saw in your last issue of the Press a card written by Mr. Robinson, and I deem it my duty also to make a similar statement, for the benefit of those who are troubled with disease of the lungs. Three years ago I commenced under the treatment of some of the most skillful physicians of the Atlantic States, who pronounced my case Bronchial Consumption. After treating with them about two years, with but little benefit, I was advised a change of climate, which I made, and came to Santa Barbara about a year ago, with the hopes of a speedy recovery, but could not see that the change had been what I anticipated, until a month since I commenced under the treatment of Dr RESSER, and have improved in health very much in that time, and am confident in a short time I will be restored to perfect health under his treatment. I cordially recommend DR RESSER to the public. MRS. M. L. REYNOLDS

ST CHARLES HOTEL,
SANTA BARBARA, CAL May 25, 1871.

I consider it my duty to the public to make the following statement, hoping that some unfortunate invalid may be benefited by it. Having been sick for some time with lung disease (or consumption) I applied to many physicians in San Francisco and other places, under whose treatment I found no relief. A short time since I met Dr H Resser here in Santa Barbara, and knowing of some of the wonderful cures he has made in different parts of the State, I put myself under his treatment and commenced to improve immediately. I can warmly recommend Dr. Resser to all who are afflicted with this dreadful disease, as he makes the lung and liver disease his specialty.

ELIJAH ROBINSON.

Card.

It is well known here that I have been under the doctors' care for the last twelve months in San Francisco and here, but could receive no benefit from any one. When Dr Resser arrived here, a short time ago, I put myself under his treatment, and commenced to improve immediately, and I am confident that in a short time I shall be restored to my health again. I can highly recommend Dr Resser to the public. COLEMAN O'DONNEL

Card.

To remove all doubt from the public mind in relation to a question which has created such a dispute in San Jose, I feel it my duty to make the following public statement of facts. It is well known that my wife was very low with consumption—so low, in fact that I had given up all hope of her recovery. I called on Dr H RESSER, who makes consumption his specialty, and in two weeks time my wife's health had so improved that she was able to walk out, and for the last three weeks has been on a visit to San Francisco and is growing stronger every day. I can recommend Dr L RESSER to all who are afflicted with diseases of the lungs. MOSES CHADBOURNE.

WHAT A FALL DID.—The press has frequently adverted to the serious consequence resulting from the habit of throwing orange peelings on the stone or asphaltum pavement. There is no doubt but what serious and sometimes fatal accidents have occurred from as small a circumstance as treading on a piece of orange peeling. But speaking of this subject, we are forcibly reminded of a fall which we observed a gentleman receive yesterday on the streets. "It was a fall, oh, my countrymen," of which all sedately disposed

The Daily Oregonian.

TUESDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 26 1872

The Legal Tender Reserve

In the endeavor during the Presidential campaign, to create public sentiment against the Administration on account of the management of the Treasury Department, the Democrats and their allies had much to say about the reserve of $11 000,000 currency which Secretary Boutwell considered to be available whenever, in his judgment, it was demanded It was declared that this reserve was simply a device whereby the Secretary of the Treasury was enabled to expand or contract the currency of the country at his pleasure, in the interest of financial and political rings Thus, it was asserted the Treasury Department was manipulated for the benefit of corrupt politicians, and as a means of securing the continuance in power of the President and his friends

This is about the only one of the legion of calumnies put into circulation during the campaign, that has survived the wreck of the Greeley movement The rest disappeared from the public gaze along with their authors But the opposition journals still mention the reserve of $14,000 000 with unfriendly comments, and oracular insinuations about the immense frauds that have been perpetrated upon the public through its instrumentality This is just such a matter as disingenuous persons can seize upon and turn to advantage, because the people are not familiar the law and facts out of which it arises. The details of the Treasury Department are less understood by intelligent business men than one might suppose. Nobody takes the pains to study and comprehend the system upon which the finances of the Government are conducted, except persons who are in some sort connected with its operation, as bankers and the few others who deal in the Government securities The acts and regulations of that branch of public business are supposed to be so numerous and their operations so complex, that few persons could afford to undertake to master the system, unless prompted thereto by business necessities And yet so far as this $11,000,000 reserve is concerned, the facts and as simple and plain as those connected with almost any of the subjects with which business men are in the habit of dealing in their daily transactions

On February 25, 1862. Congress passed an an act authorizing the issue of $150,000,000 in legal tender notes, on July 11th of the same year another issue of $150,000,000 was authorized, but, of that issue, it was provided that the Secretary should issue only $100,000,000, at once and should hold the other $50,000 000 in reserve as a means of the payment of a temporary loan authorized by the same act, on March 3, 1863, a law was passed authorizing still another issue of $150,000, 000. Thus, the amount of notes authorized by these acts of Congress was $450,000,000, subject to the reserve of $50,000,000 above specified

The provision of the act of July, 1862 making the reserve of $50,000,000 was that this sum should be reserved to pay temporary deposits and be used for that purpose, whenever in the judgment of the Secretary of the Treasury the issue of the same, or any part thereof might become necessary. Chief Justice Chase, at that time Secretary of the Treasury, construed the provision to mean that the reserved amount should only be used for the purpose specified, and that therefore, whenever, after its issuance the same amount should be withdrawn, reducing the whole issue to $400,000,000, the $50,000,000 should not be reissued, in other words, that only $40,000,000 should be permanently placed in circulation, and the remainder should be merely temporary. The Supreme Court has since sustained this view.

At the instigation of Secretary McCulloch, on April 12, 1866, Congress passed an act providing for the retiring and cancellation of not more than $10,000,000 within six months, at a rate not to exceed $4,000,000 per month Afterwards an act was passed, which took effect February 4, 1868, suspending the power of the Secretary to retire legal tender notes At that time the amount outstanding was $356,000,000 The power of retirement having been taken away, the circulation can not fall below that amount as the law now stands So the four acts of Congress taken together, authorize the keeping in circulation of an amount not less than $356,000,000, nor more than $400,000,000, leaving the sum of $44,000,000, which Secretary Boutwell considers himself authorized to issue whenever, in his judgment, there is occasion therefor The only three instances in which he has exercised this power were in September, 1869 when he issued $1,500,000, to take up certain certificates of indebtedness of the Government, issued in the former Administration and bearing interest at three per centum in November, 1871, when he issued $1,500 000 to replace in circulation the currency destroyed by the Chicago fire, and the further issue of $5,000,000 recently, to relieve the stringency of the New York money corner

It may not be very clear from the law that the Secretary has the authority to issue this $44,000,000 whenever, in his discretion, he deems it best to do so, but is very clear what have been the circumstances under which he has exercised that authority, and that there has been no attempt or intention on his part to conceal or cover up anything in connection therewith

We publish this morning the decision of Judge Deady of the U S District Court, in the case of Buchanan & Francis in bankruptcy The opinion is long, but the point mainly discussed is one which interests almost every business man in the country, and will well repay the general reader for perusal There are very few indeed who do not at times sustain relations to others, which may in law make them liable as partners or quasi partners The question what state of facts will make one liable as a partner for the debts of another, is one of those upon which courts hesitate to attempt to lay down any rule as of universal application, for the reason that there are always modifying circumstances to be considered in each case The principles discussed in this case are not merely applicable in the court of Bankruptcy They obtain equally in all courts of law and equity and a thorough understanding of them would not infrequently enable business men to avoid the annoyances of litigation and the loss of money

A French physician has invented an ingenious apparatus for the purpose of making the human heart register its own pulsations The contrivance is said to be applicable to various hundred purposes such as making a registration of respirations in breathing coughing and all physiological phenomena of a similar character It operates upon the principles employed in photography, and requires the agency of light in performing its work.

The Prussian Diet has voted over a million thalers to increase the compensation of the civil service The civil service employees of Great Britain are urging similar action in their favor The same argument is urged by the British civil service that prevailed at Berlin namely, that the compensation paid is barely sufficient, with the most rigid economy to enable the officers to subsist, while other persons who possess sufficient ability to discharge the duties of such positions it is said could receive in private pursuits two or three times as much Chancellor Howe favors the movement, and it is said to have received encouragement from others whose influence is very considerable in governmental affairs

The burnt district of Boston is to have wider and better laid out streets when it is rebuilt The narrow and crooked streets contributed materially to the spread of the fire by rendering it impossible for firemen to pass in front of the burning buildings The new map is to be so made as to give every man as nearly as practicable the same ground he occupied before the fire and when it is necessary to take land it is to be paid for by the city There appears to be a unanimous desire to have this plan carried out

We are in receipt of a letter from Oregon City which states that the employes in the woolen mills with their own hose rendered valuable assistance in saving the wool house and dye house Great credit is due the employes for their efforts to subdue the flames They all worked with a will, and some of them braved great danger to save the property, and prevent the further spread of the flames

High Handed Proceeding in New Orleans

A New Orleans dispatch of Nov 13th, has the following concerning the troubles in that city

A revolution is threatened here Gov Warmouth has surrounded Mechanics' Institute with a body of armed police, where the counting of the votes is conducted

The Returning Board of Election Officers has been changed by the removal of Messrs Pinchback, Anderson, and Gen Herron, secretary of State Gen Herron was removed from office by Gov Warmouth, and one Jacob Wharton an ex Confederate officer, put in his stead Two other plastic tools, H H Hatch and Durant Daponta, were put in the places of Messrs Pinchback and Anderson

These men, with Wharton, a man named John Lynch, and Hatch and Daponta, with the Governor, compose the returning Board They are expected to count in the fusion ticket.

The New York Times is boiling over with rage and is egging on resistance to the United States authority, Gen Emory has been requested to send troops to the scene of action

Outrageous frauds, perpetrated by Warmouth and his satellites, are daily coming to light District Attorney Beckwith and Marshal Packard are watching the proceedings with close attention

The Republicans are to be defrauded out of their rights at all hazards unless something supervenes to prevent it

The city is greatly agitated with the events of to-day

THE DECLINE OF PARIS.—The Paris correspondent of the New York Times has the following

Owing to the immense prosperity of the Empire—which many would deny if they could—thousands of families invested their savings in works of art or articles of luxury and taste, and these things are now being turned into ready money In all parts of France there are constant auction sales, the Hotel des Ventes is daily filled with rich and costly furniture and pictures; the dealers in bric a brac are sixfold more numerous than of old, and nearly half of the fine stores, along the new streets, are temporarily occupied by brocanteurs, who spread out their wares to catch the eyes of passing strangers One sees family pictures and souvenirs which would never have been sold but for necessity Sometimes strangers pick up bargains Not long ago an American bought a very small picture for 100 francs, and sold it a few hours later to M de Rothschild for 3,000 francs, and another bought a 20 000 franc picture for 100 francs I have had some personal experience, also, having bought out a Baron who found his income utterly inadequate to the present rate of living, and who was glad to sell at a very low price, rather than send his furniture and pictures to the public sale, and have the fact advertised to all the world He is a member of the Jockey Club, and formerly lived very comfortably, but now he says he finds it impossible to live upon an income which once kept him well, with two servants and a pair of horses

GRANT MEANS BUSINESS.—In an interview the other day between the President and a Pennsylvania delegation, in regard to the appointment of a Postmaster for Philadelphia, the President manifested in his remarks a determination to carry out the spirit of the Civil Service rules to a letter Telegrams in form as this course of the Chief Magistrate has created considerable comment among politicians they alleging that such a procedure will exclude many men from holding office who have just claims on the Republican party, and who can creditably fill the offices for which they apply but at the same time can not pass a Civil Service examination These dissatisfied politicians seem to have regarded President Grant's position on the Civil Service as a mere clap trap to secure votes It will be gratifying to the people to know that President Grant is not capable of such demagogery He has never from the first shown any disposition to deceive or mislead the people He has always been frank as well as sincere in the taking of his positions, and consistent in his efforts to carry them out Whether the Civil Service is the wisest, remains to be seen One thing politicians may rely on President Grant intends to give it a fair trial and the people generally expect it of him —Albany Register

A MATHEMATICAL CONGRATULATION.—The Chicago Journal of Commerce thus felicitates itself and the country upon the result of the election

We congratulate the manufacturing and commercial communities of the Republic on the re election of General Grant We had his second advent as the signal of stability Stability is the best watchword for our material interests By this we do not mean stagnation We mean stereotyped principles that shall expand or contract tariff, taxation or currency according as the increase of population or the commercial interests of the nation may demand Wise men form their opinions of the future of an administration from its past history During the last three years and eight months there has been a constant reduction of the national debt of $3 13¼,—minus the fraction of a mill—every second—$188 Jo every minute—11,235 every hour—and $271 080 every day while at the same time there has been a yearly reduction of tariff and taxes

REPLY TO THE WORKING WOMEN We clip the following from the Washington Chronicle of the 11th

We understand the ladies a movement on foot among the ladies at the Internal Revenue Bureau to raise means for the immediate needs of the ten thousand working women of Boston rendered destitute by the late fire and an earnest appeal is made to all members of those Departments and working women generally throughout the city to subscribe

The money raised will be intrusted to responsible persons in Boston for distribution, that a full account of its use may be rendered

Contributions may be sent to Mrs Lily D Wood room 16 Internal Revenue Treasury Department between the hours of nine and two o'clock

The leading papers of California, of both political parties so far as they have expressed an opinion are almost unanimous against the calling of an extra session of the Legislature

Liver & Lung Diseases

A SPECIALTY,

And is now prepared to treat patients for those diseases

Not being fortunate enough to have titled a great many emblazoned distinguished persons whose names are most generally emblazoned to the world by advertising physicians but at the same time I can produce numerous and voluntary testimonials from those I have treated for the above diseases

It is well enough known throughout California that I am the possessor of a secret to prepare a medicine purely vegetable, for the above diseases, and have made some of the

Most Remarkable Cures on Record.

And in cases which were entirely despaired of by other physicians

A Card to the Public.

Having learned that Dr H RESSER has located himself in Portland, I deem it my duty to the public and more particularly those persons who may be afflicted as I have been. After leaving Portland, a few months ago I became afflicted with Epileptic Fits and after having tried and consulted several distinguished physicians, without any benefit whatever, I was advised to call on Dr H RESSER, who happened to be visiting Virginia City at the time on professional business I lost no time in placing myself under the care of DR RESSER and am now restored to perfect health I can most highly recommend DR. RESSER to those who may be equally afflicted FREDERICK FORNER

Other Testimony.

MR HUNTER I saw in your last issue of the Press a card written by Mr Robinson and I deem it my duty also to make a similar statement for the benefit of those who are troubled with disease of the lungs Three years ago I commenced under the treatment of some of the most skillful physicians of the Atlantic States who pronounced my case Bronchial Consumption After treating with them about two years, with but little benefit, I was advised a change of climate which I made and came to Santa Barbara about a year ago with the hopes of a speedy recovery but could not see that the change had been what I anticipated until a month since I commenced under the treatment of Dr RESSER, and have improved in health very much in that time and am confident in a short time I will be restored to perfect health under his treatment I cordially recommend DR RESSER to the public MRS M L REYNOLDS Santa Barbara June 21 1871

SANTA BARBARA, CAL May 25 1871

I consider it my duty to the public to make the following statement in the hope that some unfortunate like myself may be benefitted I having been sick for some time with lung disease (for consumption I am told by many physicians in San Francisco and other places) under whose treatment I found no relief And at the advice I met Dr Resser here in Santa Barbara and knowing of some of the wonderful cures he had made in different parts of the State I thought would test his treatment and to my surprise and joy soon found myself improving rapidly and in two months time I was able to walk out I feel that I am restored to perfect health and am able to attend to my business which I could not do before I met Dr Resser and my health is improving every day I can recommend Dr H RESSER to all who are afflicted with disease of the lungs MOSES CHADBOURNE

To remove all doubt from the public mind in relation to my situation which has recently been made in San Jose I feel it my duty to state that I have been afflicted with disease of the lungs for the last two years I have tried all the remedies that I could hear of but all to no avail I was induced to try Dr Resser's medicines and consulted him by letter and received such encouraging answers that I concluded to visit him in person which I did and after a few days treatment I found that I was able to walk out I continued to improve under his treatment and feel that I am able to say that I am entirely restored to perfect health and am able to attend to my business which I could not do before I met Dr Resser and his medicines I am now able to ride to San Jose and back every day I can recommend Dr H RESSER to all who are afflicted with disease of the lungs MOSES CHADBOURNE

CITY.

WHAT A FALL DID —The press has frequently alluded to the serious consequence resulting from the habit of throwing orange peelings on the best of asphaltum pavement There is no doubt some of what serious and sometimes fatal accidents has occurred from as small a circumstance as stepping on a piece of orange peeling But speaking of this subject, we are forcibly reminded of a fall which we observed a gentleman receive yesterday on the streets "It was a fall oh my countrymen," of which all sedately disposed persons should most especially desire to avoid the cause of the fall was neither ice nor a piece of orange peel It was a second hand quid of tobacco, which had just been ejected from before the molars of an inveterate lover of the narcotic herb. The quid was lying on the sidewalk, rather repulsive to look at, but withal harmless enough in appearance The hero of the fall strode on wrapped in profound abstraction from the quid, but what was an insignificant piece of masticated tobacco to a mind so philosophic. He planted the heel of his No 10 brogan on that quid with the firm conviction that he was a real extremimate it No sooner had he placed his foot on the harmless weed, than he immediately executed some very astonishing evolutions in the air flew off, and then he made up a face that would have shown his head as if started by springs, his body turned around two or three times without slipping to think how it looked, while one leg went spasmodically through the air, and one arm described completely over Then both feet went down like a lubricated streak of lightning, and there came the hero After some moments he slowly gathered the fragments up, and took an inventory of his injuries, which were as follows A badly sprained wrist, a dislocated thumb a bruised knee, two front teeth loosened, one eye blacked, his nasal protuberance soundly thwacked and a delicate little incision made on his forehead. Besides all these, his plug hat was a mud dy wreck, and both the glasses smashed out of his spectacles When speech was regained, he didn't exactly swear, but his remarks were not exactly evangelical, as regards tobacco chewers generally, and quids in particular The moral of this is never step on a quid of tobacco It will save you much useless profanity, and not impair your manly form

FINALLY SETTLED —After years of vexatious litigation and legal labor the ownership of the Hudson's Bay Land Claim in this city has been finally settled, and all suits pending in regard to it have been dismissed. We are informed that the settlement was effected by the payment by the South Portland Real Estate Association to the claimants D B Bernah and A B Caruthers of the sum of $3 000 for all the right, title and interest in and to the land in question, and that of this amount the grantors take $30,000 in stock in the association Thus terminates this vexed question which has created so great upon the title to a large tract of valuable land in our city, embracing as it does the finest sites for residences within the corporate limits. No doubt that parties interested in or living on the tract described will be gratified that the dispute is at length, and it would seem permanently settled Thirteen years have elapsed since the death of the owner and in that time those who have purchased lots within the tract have been more or less harassed about their titles But one claimant and then another has come on an unexpected quarter and all have failed to bring the matter to a settlement The removal of these incumbrances will doubtlessly give a fresh impetus to real estate transactions in that part of the city and improvements will now take a fresh start in that vicinity

BRANCH DEPARTMENT —Articles of incorporation have been filed in the offices of the Secretary of State, and County Clerk of Multnomah county, for the creation and establishment of a branch department in Oregon, of the California Mutual Life Insurance Company The following gentlemen constitute the District Board W S Ladd, W L Halsey, J A Wayland, Hamilton Boyd, J R Ferish, W H Effinger, F A Bancroft, and Wm B. Cardwell A meeting was held by the Board on the 23d inst, at which the following officers were chosen President, W S Ladd, Vice President, W L Halsey, Secretary, J A Wayland The duties of the Board will be to give reliable information as to the standing and condition of the Company to policy holders and the public, and also to supervise the loaning of all money received for policies in this State and the intention of the Company to commence business at once.

STILL TOO LOW —Although the canal, which connects the Tualatin river and Oswego lake, has been finished some time by the company, no steamer as yet has effected a passage The early rain this fall increased the volume of the river, and at one time caused the water along the newly cut canal to attain a depth nearly sufficient to admit of the passage of a steamer But the cold weather of the past month has produced a decided recedance of the water The river will not probably to rise now until the offset of the winter rains is experienced Until that time, no boat can be expected to pass through. The steamer Oswego is at present engaged along the Tualatin shoaling out the obstructions in the channel The intention is to have the impediments to the free navigation of the river removed by the time the change of water will allow the boats to pass from the Tualatin down through the canal into the lake.

INCORPORATED —Articles of incorporation have been filed in the County Clerk s office by Messrs A J Dolph, O N Denny and H W. Scott The gentlemen are the incorporators of the Oregon Bulletin Printing and Publishing Company a joint stock company recently organized The location of the company is fixed at fifty years.

The enterprise, business and occupation in which the corporation propose to engage is to be the establishing of a daily and weekly newspaper in the city of Portland, and also to establish and carry on a job printing office

The principal place of business will be Portland Oregon.

The capital stock of the corporation is not at present $5 000. The number of shares is 500, and the amount of each share $100.

AT WORK —The San Francisco Bulletin in speaking of the scoundrel Pascal Smith, who left this city with a young girl, some time ago, says The Portland papers contain a long story about a young girl who left the Sisters's school in Portland and took passage on the steamer for San Francisco with a young man of bad character The pair were arrested on their arrival in this city and the man was kept in the city prison until another dispatch came stating that the friends of the girl declined to prosecute, when he was discharged Indeed, it did not appear that any criminal offense had been committed The young man is now at work in this city, and the young woman is also earning her living in an independent manner, and it is said they are engaged to be married "

PERMISSION TO REMAIN —We learn that a petition is now in circulation, and numerously signed by the citizen tax payers of East Portland praying the Board of Trustees of that city to allow the "hall house," standing at the foot of Ladd's addition to remain where it now is The Board it will be remembered, passed a resolution some time ago, to have the house removed, and authorizing the Street Commissioner to change its present site

PENDING —We learn that negotiations are now pending between certain parties for the purchase and sale of a piece of land situated just north of Irving's Market, at the corner of First and A streets The object is to purchase the ground for the purpose of erecting a brick building, which will be occupied jointly by Wells, Fargo & Co and the Western Union Telegraph Company's line.

THE GUILTY —In the Circuit Court yesterday in the case of the State vs E J Taylor and Sarah Washburn, indicted for illicit cohabitation was tried The case was argued at some length and submitted After deliberating a short time the jury returned a verdict of not guilty On motion of counsel, defendants' bondsmen were exonerated and prisoners discharged

SCATTERING UP —As the steamer Rese came down the river yesterday, she passed the steamer Terry Bell gathering up portions of a large raft of logs, which had been torn apart while being towed to this city. The raft being long and unwieldy, was caught in some manner and parted in several places

ON A STAND —Willard A Holbrook, Esq., who has been confined to his bed with a dangerous attack of rheumatism for several months past, has so far recovered as to be able to make his appearance on the streets again His numerous friends will be pleased to learn of his convalescence

NEW RAILROAD COMPANY —A railroad company of which Mr Philip Ritz of Walla Walla is President, was organized a few days since in La Grande The object of the company is to build a road from Walla Walla to La Grande There is capital enough on hand to build bridges and "tie" the road from the former city to the base of the Blue Mountains a distance of 30 miles Work will be commenced early in the spring and pushed forward with vigor Mr Ritz's name is sufficient to indicate its speedy construction

NEW BELL —The handsome new alloy bell presented by the members of the Last Portland Brass Band to Mr Joe Knott was swung yesterday in its proper place on board the Katie Field Passengers will hereafter be apprised of the arrival and departure of the ferry by its clear tones

DELAYED —The launching of the hull of the new dredger will be deferred, for some reason, until the return of Major Robert from San Francisco where he is now attending a meeting of the Board of Engineers The hull is all ready to launch, ways, and has been inspected by the proper officials

TWO MORE CASES —Two more saloon keepers were arrested yesterday on warrants issued from Justice Ryan's Court, charging them with keeping open their places of business, and trafficking in liquors on Sundays The cases will come up for hearing to day at 1 o'clock P M

BARKS OFF —Parties from the mouth of the river state that five vessels are now off the bar ready to come over The bark Free Trade and brig Perpetua are both off and also three other vessels, supposed to be from foreign ports

COMMENCED —The second quarter of the Portland Academy and Females Seminary opened yesterday under the superintendence of Professor Royal The attendance was unusually large for the commencement of the term

ON THE WAY —The bark Melancthon sailed from San Francisco for this port Saturday, with a large assorted cargo The bark Rival went on the berth immediately after the Melancthon cleared, for the same port

ANOTHER LOAD —The steamer Dixie Thompson took down the river yesterday another load of wheat, which was placed on board the Zenaro This vessel will soon receive a cargo and be ready to sail for her destination

OMITTED — The Sociable which was to have been given at the Baptist Church on Wednesday evening of the present week, will be omitted on account of the sudden death of a member of the congregation

SOON TO LAUNCH —The second and last large scow, which will be used as a tender to the new dredger, is under fair way and will probably be launched in the course of a week from the ways

DISAPPEARED —Snow has disappeared from Walla Walla and vicinity and the weather has greatly moderated within the last few days.

PASSED OUT —The bark Jane A Faulkinburg having completed her cargo, passed out to sea last Friday, bound for Honolulu

DECISION IN BANKRUPTCY BY JUDGE DEADY

United States District Court for the District of Oregon Saturday, November 23, 1872

In re W W Francis & W A Buchanan No 172 In Bankruptcy Petition by Creditors

Participation in the profits of a business is presumptive or primary proof that the participator is a partner in such business, and in the absence of other proof is sufficient evidence thereof but such presumption may be overcome by showing, that such profits were received by the party simply as wages for services performed or interest for money loaned to the person carrying on such business

The English and American authorities examined and commented on, touching the rule announced in Waugh vs Carver (2 H Bl 235) upon the authority of Grace vs Smith (2 W Bl 998)—; that he who shares in the profits indefinitely shall by operation of law be made liable to losses and the rule denied to be law

Upon the evidence and as a matter of fact a partnership found to exist between two parties where the transaction was intentionally and for collateral purposes disguised under the cloak of a pretended loan and employment as book keeper

On October 29, 1872, the firm of Walter Brothers filed their petition in this Court alleging the act and bstwe on the dates hereinafter mentioned W. W Francis and W A Buchanan were partners, doing business at Portland under the name and style of "W A Buchanan," and praying that said "firm and its members" be adjudged bankrupts for the following causes

I That said firm on September 10, 1871, made their promissory note, payable nine months after date to the order of the petitioners, for $200 with interest at one per centum per month, and that on and after June 10, 1871, they fraudulently stopped payment of said note during a period of fourteen days

II. That there is due the petitioners from said firm the sum of $500 29, the same being a balance of account for goods sold and firm between November 1, 1871, and October 1, 1872

III. That on September 15, 1872, said firm being then insolvent, paid $250 to a creditor there of, to wit Field & Frie, of San Francisco, with the intent to thereby give a preference to such creditor and to defeat and delay the operation of the bankrupt act

Buchanan made default, but on November 6, Francis answered, denying in effect that he was a partner with Buchanan in any of the alleged transactions or indebtedness

On November 12 and 13 the issue was tried by the Court without a jury and reserved for decision

The following facts are admitted or satisfactorily proven

I That the matters stated in the petition except as to the allegation of partnership between Francis & Buchanan are true

II That on January 24, 1871, Paul Richter and W A Buchanan were doing business as furniture dealers and upholsters under the firm name of Paul Richter & Co., and that on said day said firm made an agreement in writing with said Francis to the effect following.

1. Francis agrees to advance said Richter & Co. theum of $5,000 "on or before June, 1871, and to also keep the books of the firm for one year from said date," unless agreement terminated in the meantime.

2 Richter & Co. agrees to pay Francis interest monthly at the rate of 12 per centum per annum upon said $3,000, and any further sum which he may advance to them, and also "as remuneration for keeping the books of the firm, a sum equal to one sixth of the net profits of the firm which shall be made during the year 1871."

3. If Francis is absent from the city a deduction in proportion to the length of such absence to be made from his remuneration.

4. Agreement may be terminated at the pleasure of either party on giving the other notice in writing in which case the amount then due Francis to "be repaid in notes of firm of $1,000 each," payable at intervals of 60 and 30 days after such notice, with interest at the rate of 12 per centum per annum and if agreement terminated before end of year 1871, Francis to be paid, as compensation a fair sum" "not less than $45 per month."

III. On August 1, 1871 Richter retired from the firm and said written agreement was modified by a verbal one then made between B. & F, to the effect that the latter should receive one fourth of the net profits of the business for keeping the books, but not less than $25 per month, profits or no profits.

IV. For the five months ending December 31, 1871, Francis' share of the profits amounted to $250, $260 of which was added to the $3,000 due him, and a new note payable on demand taken by him for the amount with interest at the rate aforesa'd, signed W. A. Buchanan, but during the year 1872 the business made no profits.

V. Francis advanced the sum of $3,000, as per agreement, in January, 1871, and the $250 left in the business as aforesaid, and kept the books until September, 1872, during which time he loaned W. A Buchanan, to be used in the business, from $3,000 to $2,500, on current account, which was secured by sufficient collaterals, and received from the business for all the money so advanced and loaned interest monthly at the rate aforesaid, and $25 per month.

VI. Francis was not known by the creditors of W. A. Buchanan to be a partner in the business, nor did he during the time of his employment therein volunteer any direction or advice in the conduct of it, except for a few weeks in 1872, while Buchanan was absent from the city, when he took into his custody the daily receipts of sales, and in some instances directed the salesman whom to credit and whom not; but during this time he had written authority from W. A. Buchanan to act as his agent, which authority, however, was not exhibited to said salesman or any one else, so far as appears, until it was produced on the trial.

VII. That Buchanan had been adjudged a bankrupt, individually, on the petition of one of his creditors, in this court, on October 28, and that the liabilities incurred in the business at the time of such adjudication, amounted to $13,000 or $14,000, and that Francis' claim against Buchanan for money loaned and advanced the business was at that time $5,200 or $5,300.

Upon this state of facts counsel for the petitioners insist that, as to third persons, the law conclusively presumes that Francis was a partner in the firm of W. A. Buchanan, and therefore he is liable for his acts of bankruptcy and debts.

Under what circumstances, a person not ostensibly a partner, is nevertheless liable as one, is a vexed question. In the language of a distinguished commentator, "The cases on this subject are not easily reconciled, nor is the language used in relation to it always admissible, or indeed intelligible." (Parsons on Part. 60) And again, (Id 92) "The many cases cited in the notes to this chapter exhibit in strong light the difficulty, if not impossibility, of drawing from the decisions any definite principle or rule applicable with certainty, to the question, 'Who are partners as to third persons?'"

In Waugh vs Carver (2 H. Bl. 235) cited as the leading case on this subject, (1 Smiths Lead. cas, 321) L Ch. J. Eyre held, that while upon the facts, the Carvers and Geslee were not partners inter se, and did not intend to be, still they were such as to third persons, because by the arrangement between them they agreed "to take a moiety of the profits of each other's business generally, and indefinitely, as they should arise, at certain times agreed upon," and upon the alleged authority of Grace vs Smith (2 W. Bl., 998) he laid down the rule as follows, "He who takes a moiety of all the profits indefinitely, shall, by operation of law, be made liable to losses, if losses arise, upon the principle that by taking a part of the profits, he takes from the creditors a part of that fund which is the proper security to them for the payment of their debts." But in Grace vs Smith (supra) Ch. J. De Grey, says: "Every man who has a share of the profits of a trade, ought also to bear his share of the loss. And if any one takes part of the profits, he takes part of that fund upon which the creditor of the trader relies for his pay ment. * * * I think the true criterion is to enquire whether Smith agreed to share the profits with Robinson, or whether he only relied upon those profits as a fund of payment."

It will be observed that this latter case makes no distinction between sharing the profits definitely or indefinitely, the point for which it was cited in Waugh vs Carver (supra) but does make manifestly different distinction, that is, between sharing in the profits of a trade or relying upon them for payment, in both of which cases the degree of indefiniteness may be the same. Again, the reason given for the distinction taken in Grace vs Smith is not sufficient, because in point of fact, a person who shares in the profits of a trade, or receives such profits in payment, equally diminishes the fund on which the creditors rely

In ex parte Rowlandson (1 Rose, 91) Ford Eldon, said, "The ground was settled, that if a man as the reward for his labor chooses to stipulate for an interest in the profits in the business, instead of a sum proportionate to those profits, he is, as to third persons, a partner"

In ex parte Hamper (17 Ves 403) he said, "The cases have gone to this nicety, upon a distinction so thin, that I cannot state it as established upon due consideration, that, if a trader agrees to pay another person for his labor in the concern, a sum of money, even in proportion to the profits, equal to a certain share, that will not make him a partner, but if he has a specific interest in the profits, themselves as profits, he is a partner * * * It is clearly settled, though I regret it, that if a man stipulates that as the reward of his labor, he shall have not a specific interest in the business, but a given sum of money, even in proportion to a given quantum of the profits, that will not make him a partner, but if he agrees for a part of the profits, as such, giving him a right to an account, though having no property in the capital, he is, as to third persons, a partner"

These dicta of Lord Eldon's have been very much deferred to by the courts and the profession Parsons says, "We have reason to believe that for many years, in various parts of this country numerous contracts of this kind have been drawn, carefully using the language which Eldon is supposed to have made safe by the distinction he asserted. Nor is it difficult to account for this. For to say nothing of the immense authority of so eminent a judge, his words so understood, supply a clear, simple, and easily applicable rule for the avoidance of a great danger They tell the lawyer who would draw a contract of this kind, how by a mere formula, he can guard his clients from a great uncertainty the inconvenience of which might otherwise suffice to prevent the proposed arrangement As a convenient rule, much may be said of it but as an accurate one, it must be spoken of very differently

It is indeed remarkable that a rule, or a distinction to which Lord Eldon strongly objects, not merely doubting but positively affirming his dislike, and which he lays down as he says, under the constraint of irresistable authority, should since have been generally adopted not so much on his authority as on his assertion of preceding authority, when in point of fact no such authority can be found or so far as any accessible evidence goes can now be believed to have existed"

The criterion for determining whether the agreement makes a case of compensation or partnership as to third persons, differs in these cases (ex parte Rowlandson and ex parte Hamper) from the one asserted in Waugh vs Carver, that he who participates in the profits of a trade, indefinitely, is liable as a partner, because he takes from the fund upon which the creditors rely, and the only reason given for the distinction between the liability of the person who contracts to take a sum equal to a share of the profits of a trade and one who stipulates for a share of such profits, as profits, is, that the latter has a right to an account and therefore he is liable as a partner And this reason has been since asserted and relied on by Courts and writers (3 Kent Com, 25 note b,) Champion vs Bostwick (18 Wend, 184), Helmstreet vs Howland (5 Denio, 68), Deny vs Cabot (6 Met, 82)

In reference to these Bisset on Part, (14) says "Some of the writers, and even some of the judicial authorities, on this subject appear to think they have surmounted the difficulty, by confining the rule of liability to the cases where the party would have a right to an account of the profits, but to this it may be answered, that in all cases, where a person is to be paid for his services by a sum proportioned to the profits, he must be entitled to an account of the profits If not, how is he to ascertain that he has what he stipulated for? * * * The distinction between the cases where a participation in the profits has been held to make a man liable as a partner, and those where it has been held not to make him so liable, is certainly, at least as Lord Eldon has given expression to that distinction, so thin, that it does not appear possible, from the most careful consideration of it, to arrive at any clear, general conclusion, nor does Mr. Justice Story's attempt to reconcile the repugnancy of the various decided cases, and to bring them, as he says, into 'harmony with each other, as well as with common sense' appear to be very successful If the matter were res integra, a plain and intelligible rule, and one, too, which would not be at variance with anything in the cases decided previously to Ex parte Hamper 17, Ves, 403, would be, that those whose share of the returns of the business or adventure consisted wholly of the profits of the stock, or partly of the profits of the stock, and partly of the wages of labor, should be held liable as partners, but those whose share of the said returns consisted wholly of the wages of labor, or the interest of money lent, or a certain fixed annuity, and who had no control or voice as principals in the management of the business or adventure, should not be held liable as partners"

In discussing this supposed test of liability as a partner—the right to an account of the profits of the business—Parsons on Part., (92) says "Undoubtedly every partner has a right to an account of the profits, but the converse is not true, that every one who has such a right is a partner There are many ways in which a man may reposit another, and in that right be entitled to an account, without being liable as a partner"

Hackman vs Cox and Wheatcroft (91 E C L, 523) is a comparatively late English case (1860), in which rules given in the cases above cited seem to have treated as erroneous or unintelligible The case was this

Smith and Son, prior to 1850, carried on business at the Stanton Iron Works, as iron-masters and merchants, and being involved and indebted to the defendants and others, executed a composition deed transferring their property and business to certain trustees, in trust, that they would carry on the business in the name of the Stanton Iron Co., and after paying certain expenses and interest on a certain mortgage whenever and as often as the net income amounted to a shilling on the pound of the indebtedness, to divide the same among the creditors in proportion to their claims, and upon these terms were discharged to reconvey the property to Smith and Son. The deed was executed by the trustees and creditors who thereby released the debtors In 1855 the plaintiff, who was the proprietor of the Grafton Iron Ore Works, drew three bills for upwards of 1,300 pounds, for ore furnished The Stanton Iron Co., which were accepted by James Haywood, one of the trustees "per procuration, The Stanton Iron Co." After words the works passed into the hands of the mortgagee, and ceased to be carried on under the composition deed, when the plaintiff brought suit against the defendants as acceptors of the bills, on the ground that the creditors under the deed were partners in the business of The Stanton Iron Co, because the same was conducted by their agents, the trustees, and they had stipulated to take the profits thereof.

At Trinity Term, 1856, the plaintiff had judgment in the Court of Common Pleas, the court holding on the authority of Grace vs Body (5 Ad & E, 38), and Jones vs. Whitbread (11 C B, 406), that the creditors executing this deed became partners in the trade agreed to be carried on thereunder. On appeal the case was argued in the Ex. Ch in February, 1857, and judgment reserved until November, when the judgment of the Common Pleas was affirmed—three Judges for and three against. On appeal to the House of Lords the decision was reversed (99 E C L, 47). The six Judges who heard the argument in the H of L, delivered opinions certain and were equally divided on the question—Are the defendants liable upon the bills of exchange?"

The Lord Chancellor, Campbell, and the law Lords, Brougham, Cranworth, Wensleydale and Chelmsford, delivered opinions to the effect that the defendants were not partners, and the decision was reversed.

In the course of the opinions delivered, the supposed rule that participation in the profits of a trading concern, makes one liable as a partner was questioned and commented upon freely. Blackburn, J, who was for holding the defendants as partners, said "The phrase taking the profits as such, is not a happy one, and there is some difficulty at times in defining what it means, but I think at all events it means this It is not possible, according to the common law, to cause a trading concern to be carried on upon the terms that the advantages of a partnership, including the participation in profits and partnership lien and security over the assets of the firm, shall belong to those who have but a limited liability"

Wightman, J, who was for reversal, said "It is said that a person who shares in net profits is a partner That may be so in some cases, but not in all, and it may be material to consider in what sense the words 'sharing in the profits' are used In the present case, I greatly doubt whether the creditor who merely obtains payment of a debt incurred in the business, by being payed the exact amount of his debt, and no more, out of the profits of the business, can be said to share the profits"

Pollock, C B, who was of the same mind, said "The question then arises, whether the interest which the creditors had in the profits to be made by the carrying on of the business under the deed, was such as to make them partners in respect to third persons * * * If a firm were in difficulties, and a person proposed to assist them by a loan of money, engaging to receive payment out of the profits only, and to make no claim in the event of there being no profits but stipulating that one-half of the profits should be applied as they arose in payment of his debt, and that he should have power to see that this was done,—would he thereby become a partner, and liable for all debts contracted subsequently to this arrangement? On this very simple state of facts, there may possibly arise a difference of opinion, but I think a large majority of all lawyers and commercial men would decide at once that assistance so offered and so accepted would not make the lender of the money a partner as to third persons If he took a warrant of attorney entitling him to enter up judgment at his pleasure, and sweep away in payment of his demand, capital, debts, profits and everything, he certainly would not be a partner, but as is said if he limits his claim to be paid out of the profits only, his limited right to payment creates an unlimited liability I think, my Lords there must be some fallacy in this, the conclusion to my mind appears so unjust and absurd, and so much at variance with natural equity"

Lord Cranworth said "Would they (the creditors), have become partners in the concern carried on by the trustees merely because they passively assented to its being carried on upon the terms that the net income, i e, the net profits should be applied on discharge of their demands? I think not It was argued that, as they would be interested in the profits, therefore they would be partners But this is a fallacy It is often said that the test, or one of the tests, whether a person not ostensibly a partner, is nevertheless in contemplation of law a partner, is whether he is entitled to participate in the profits This, no doubt, is in general a sufficiently accurate test for, a right to participate in the profits ujon the present occasion is evidence that the trade in which the profits have been made was carried on in part for or on behalf of the person setting up such a claim But the real ground of the liability is, that the trade has been carried on by persons acting on his behalf When that is the case he is liable to the trade obligations, and entitled to its profits or to a share of them It is not strictly correct to say that his right to share the profits makes him liable to the debts of the trade The correct mode of stating the proposition is, to say that the same thing that entitles him to the one makes him liable to the other, namely, the fact that the trade has been carried on in his behalf, i e, that he stood in the relation of principal to wards the persons actually ostensibly as the traders, by whom the liabilities have been incurred, and under whose management the profits have been made"

Lord H met yields said "A man who enters another to carry on a trade, whether in his own name or not, to buy and sell, and to pay over all the profits to him is undoubtedly the principal, and the person so employed is the agent, and the principal is liable for the agent's contracts in the course of his employment So, if two or more agree that they should carry on a trade and share the profits of it, each is a principal, and each is an agents for the other, and each is bound by the others contracts in carrying on the trade as much as a single principal would be by the act of an agent who was to give the whole of his profits to his employer Hence, it becomes a test of the liability of one for the contracts of another, that he is to receive the whole or a part of the profits by way from that contract by virtue of the agreement made at the time of the employment I believe this is the true principle of partnership liability Perhaps the maxim, that he who takes the profits ought to bear the loss, often stated in the earlier cases on this subject,—Waugh vs Carver, etc,—is only the consequence, not the cause, why a man is liable as a partner"

From the general conclusion reached in this case, that the defendants were not partners in the Stanton Iron Co., simply because they were to receive the net profits of the business, and from the opinion expressed in the H. of L I think it is clear that the decision set aside the arbitrary rule that are in definite or other participation in profits necessarily made one liable as a partner under any circumstances, but the fact of such participation is to be treated as evidence, more or less cogent according to the circumstances, of a partnership

Following the final decision in Hickman vs Cox and Wheatcroft (supra), and in consonance with the views therein expressed the English parliament recently passed an act (28 and 29 Vic., c 86) which provides among other things, that a loan to a person engaged in trade upon a written contract that the lender shall receive a rate of interest in proportion to profits, or a share of the profits, shall not of itself constitute the lender a partner, nor shall a contract to remunerate a servant or agent of a person engaged in trade by a share of the profits, of itself render such servant or agent liable as a partner In noticing this act to Parsons on Part (93), says. "We will add our hope and our belief, that the courts of this country will regard this statute rather as declaratory of the law-merchant in respect to partnership, than as changing that law, and will apply to cases which come before them, the principles upon which the statutes is founded"

The American cases on this subject are also conflicting, but the weight and tendency of authority appears to be in favor of the doctrine, "That a mere promise to pay out of the profits a sum of money, as a specific proportion of the profits, does not necessarily constitute the payee a partner, and gives him no interest in the profits and no right to the profits, but only a personal claim against the promisor, for such money, or for such a share of profits after they are ascertained and may be divided" (Par on Part, 70) In Berthold et al vs Goldsmith, (24 Iowa, 342) Mr Justice Clifford, speaking for the Court, says: "Actual participation in the profits as principal, we think, creates a partnership as between the parties and third persons, whatever may be their intentions in that behalf, and notwithstanding the dormant partner was not expected to participate in the loss beyond the amount of the profits" In support of this proposition the cases of Waugh vs Carver and Grace vs. Smith (supra) are piled together with the rule announced therein, that he who has a share of the profits ought to bear his share of the loss. But the opinion goes on to say "That rule, however, has no application whatever to a case of special service or agency, when the employe has no power as a partner in the firm and no interest in the profits, as property, but is simply employed as a servant or special agent, and is to receive a given sum out of the profits or a proportion of the same as a compensation for his services" In other words the participation in the profits which will make one liable to third persons as a partner, is a participation as a partner, or in the language of the opinion, as principal,—and that is the fact to be ascertained In that case the Court held that a person who negotiated the sale of goods for another, under a contract to have half the profits and a certain compensation in any event, was not a partner as to such sales

Mr Justice Story believes that the true doctrine upon this subject is, that a participation in the profits is presumptive proof that the participant is a partner, and sufficient proof in the absence of all other opposing circumstances. (Story on Part, 38)

Having reached this conclusion, I cannot, upon the facts as fair stated, conclude that Francis is liable as a partner with Buchanan For although he participated in the profits of the trade, the agreement and circumstances under which such participation took place, are sufficient to modify the presumption of law that he did so as a partner or principal, and so leave it in doubt whether he took such profits only as a compensation for money loaned and services rendered, or otherwise.

It then becomes necessary to inquire further and ascertain whether upon the whole evidence Francis was in fact a partner or not.

Buchanan being called as a witness by the petitioners, testified that Francis was an actual partner in the firm of Richter & Co and also in that of W A Buchanan, so far as the profits were concerned, but not in the losses, and that the written and verbal agreements aforesaid and the manner of keeping the books and the written authority to Francis to act as his agent, by which it appeared that Francis only loaned money to Richter & Co and to W A. Buchanan, for a certain interest, and kept their books for a share of the profits with a guarantee of a certain sum per month, were all a mere pretense and device, not intended to wrong any one engaged in business with said firms, but merely to conceal the fact of such partnership from Francis' employer the Bank of British Columbia, it being contrary to the rules of such Bank that their employees should be engaged in other business

Francis, being called as a witness on his own behalf, testified that he was not a partner in the concern unless the agreement made him one, and that it truly stated his relations to the parties and the business, and that he desired such relations to be kept secret, but did not state why He also admitted that he was a clerk in the Bank aforesaid during the period covered by those transactions

Paul Richter, called as a witness by the petitioners, testified that it was his understanding that Francis was a partner in the firm of Richter & Co; but he had no direct knowledge on the subject

Dr Cardwell, called by the petitioners, testified that after Buchanan was adjudged a bankrupt, Francis urged him to agree to a settlement for 50 cents on the dollar, and he then said that if witness would so settle he would never hear of a $600 note made by witness as an accommodation to B, and which Francis then held as collateral security for money loaned B on account, and that B considered their debts confidential and would pay them dollar for dollar.

Here is a direct conflict between the testimony of the two persons who ought to know better than any one else what was the real relation between them concerning this business Resort must then be had to the circumstances and other proofs of the case to ascertain the truth of the matter Buchanan so far as can be seen, has no pecuniary interest in the question. Francis has a large one Buchanan may have some personal feeling against Francis, regarding him as one who, in the language of counsel, and sucked the sap out of the business—or, as the keenine partner in what the Roman lawyers called societas leonina, in allusion to the fable of the Lion—who, having entered into a hunting partnership with the other beasts of the forest, appropriated to himself all the prey Be this as it may, he did not impress me as a witness who was inimical in his feelings towards Francis He stated that he did not first disclose the fact of partnership His testimony was direct and positive, and went into details of conversations between himself and Francis, with the circumstances of time and place, that gave it the semblance of probability and truth

On the contrary, Francis' testimony was brief, somewhat ambiguous—as that he was not a partner unless his agreement made him one—and contained mainly of general denials.

Again, the fact of Francis' employment in the Bank furnishes a motive, reason or inducement to disguise a partnership with this cloak of a loan of money and hiring of services.

The interest which Francis took in having the creditors settle at 50 cents on the dollar, may have been prompted by mere friendship for Buchanan, but the fact that he assured Cardwell that in such event his debt would be paid in full or he would never hear of his note again, indicates a concern knowledge and authority in the premises that we might expect of a person interested in the matter otherwise than as a mere creditor

When Francis overseed the direct authority in the business that he did in the absence of Buchanan, although he had a secret writting appointing him agent, he did not deem it necessary to show it to the salesman or any one else, but proceeded to take the cash into his own custody from the till daily, and direct who to credit and who not, with all the authority of a partner The salesman, Mr Lewis don't seem to have had any question or doubt about his right to do so, independent of the writing, which he never saw or knew of, until it was produced in Court

Richter's testimony goes to establish the partnership The particulars of the transaction don't appear to have been disclosed to him by either B or F But from all that he observed during the six or seven months that he was an active partner in the concern he regarded and treated Francis as a partner in the profits at least, although not in the capital stock As to what B told Richter I do not consider it, because B's declarations upon the question of the existence of the partnership are not evidence against Francis

It do not directly appear from the evidence what was a reasonable compensation for keeping the books It was assumed by counsel for the petitioners and not questioned by opposing counsel that $25 per month was a fair compensation, and the conclusion appears probable Now, if Francis was simply employed to keep books, what inducement was there for Buchanan to agree to give him any interest in the profits of the business or any other compensation beyond the $25 per month, which he was guaranteed and paid, profits or no profits? The money put into the concern, if a loan, was drawing the highest legal rate of interest, independent of the compensation paid as book keeper.

This single circumstance indicates that this arrangement was a device to cover up a partnership in the profits or a usurious loan. As it is not unlawful to be a dormant or secret partner in a trading business and it is to loan money at usurious interest, the court ought to infer that the contingent and extra compensation for keeping the books was a device whereby Francis was to be admitted to a share in the profits as a partner

All these circumstances considered, I think the testimony is in favor of the conclusion that Francis was a partner in the firm of W A Buchanan

But if, as contended by counsel for respondent, the evidence was evenly balanced, effect being given to the fact that Francis did participate in the profits, the same conclusion would follow

As has been shown, a participation in the profits, in fact is presumptive proof of partnership, and sufficient proof unless overcome by other circumstances, (Story on Part sec 38) It being admitted that Francis participated in the profits of the concern, and the circumstances of the agreement at least, leaving it in doubt whether such participation was as partner or employe, the burden of proof is upon him to overcome the presumption that such profits were received by him as a partner

Insurance in Boston.

By mail we have full particulars of the fire in Boston and the condition of the several insurance companies affected by the calamity We gather that of the Boston joint stock companies doing business in the city, twenty-nine companies suffer a loss of $28,550,000. Of these, five will pay all their losses amounting to only $930,000 Two will pay 95 per cent. of their losses which amount to $1,400 000 Two others will pay 75 per cent of $2 175, 000 of losses. One will pay 60 per cent. of $1,500,000 One, 50 per cent of $1,990,000 loss Five will pay 50 per cent of $4,300,000 loss Four will pay 40 per cent of $3,300,000 Two will pay 35 per cent of $1 975,000, and three companies will pay 25 per cent of $3,750,000 The total amount of losses sustained by the Boston joint stock companies, $23,550,000 of which $12,404,000 will be paid

Seven Massachusetts Mutual Companies sustain losses aggregating $4,575,000 of which $1 225,000 will be paid

Companies of other States doing business in Boston lost $13,872 000, all of which will be made good

The losses by Foreign Companies foot up $5,740 000 This also is probably good, and, if so, then the total loss of all companies is $42,747 000 and the payments, $35,201,500 The company losing most heavily is the Boston Shoe and Leather Company, whose losses foot up the enormous sum of $5 000,000 They will pay one-fourth, or 25 per cent

Our exchanges contain various speculations as to the probable effect of these losses on the business of the country, but all agree that the probabilities of a money panic are much less than they seemed to be immediately after the fire

The Eastern Money Market.

A Boston paper of the 12th says: "The money market is, of course, somewhat unsettled by the general disturbance caused by the fire, but the banks are all firm and confident and are transacting their daily business as usual, the only exceptions being such of them as were burned out and have not had a chance to get into new rooms and arrange their business At the clearing house on Monday all the banks made their settlements promptly with the exception of the Hide and Leather, North American and Freeman's, and to day all but the Freeman's were represented as usual The Freeman's has now secured new rooms, and in a few days will be all ready to make settlements and go on with their regular business. All the notes, bonds and securities in their inner safe were found to be safely preserved and in excellent order when the safe was opened In their outer vault the books and some other valuable papers were partially destroyed, but enough remains to assist them in duplicating such books and papers as may be necessary Their customers will undoubtedly afford them all the facilities in their power in the work of restoring them Although the absolute loss the bank has sustained by the fire is likely to be very little besides furniture and fixtures, yet all the other banks which were burned out suffered still less, having generally saved the contents of their safes and vaults unhipured The feeling among the bank managers is not above a cheerful submission to the inevitable but it is hopeful and confident as to the future

In New York the same authority says The Boston fire and the money stringency in London are discussed with deep interest in Wall street The full effect of the former cannot be estimated till the actual condition of the business interests affected by the fire is known The shipment of three millions in gold to morrow and on Thursday, now almost definitely known to be engaged for, is expected to favorably affect American interests there but the bulk of this gold must come from the banks, and thus materially affect the lawful money reserve. The government is therefore looked to for some measure of relief, even by those who most severely criticised the Secretary's action in reissuing a few millions of greenbacks
